Investment Style

AA = Alternative Asset. These are investments outside of the main investment asset classes which are cash, bonds and shares.

AR = Absolute Return. These are investments managed without regard to the relevant index for that asset class with the objective of generating positive returns in any market conditions.

G = Growth. These investments are selected on the basis that they have the potential to grow more than similar alternatives.

- I = Income. These investments are primarily for the generation of a reasonably predictable income.
- V = Value. These investments are selected on the basis that they represent good value relative to similar alternatives.

MS = Multi-Style. These funds invest in a range of investments with complimentary investment styles to try to reduce volatility through the different market cycles.

P = Passive. This is a passive selection of securities that tracks a market index. Such a fund invests in all, or a representative number, of the securities within the index.

Returns calculated on NTA movement, assuming distributions reinvested on payment date, after tax and management fee

Managed Funds Fees:

Fund Managers deduct their fees from the value of the funds they manage. These fees are detailed in the relevant Investment Statement. For most managed funds, these fees are calculated and deducted from the gross value each fund's assets and are generally reflected in the unit price. However, each managed fund follows its own particular rules and you should read the relevant Investment Statements carefully to ensure that you understand the fees applicable at Fund Manager level, and that you do not rely solely upon this general commentary.

In some cases, fees are deducted from income distributions e.g. group investment funds investing in mortgages.

The Select Manager receives no part of the Managed Funds fee.

In most cases, the Select Manager has negotiated reduced annual management fees with the fund managers represented on Select Wealth Management.

Where applicable, these lower annual management fees are usually reflected as a reduced fee or as a rebate provided by the applicable fund manager which is paid to the investor's cash holding account.

Schedule 21 of the FMC Regulations requires certain information to be provided to clients. This information is included below.

This shows hypothetical returns for the model portfolio that each investment strategy is based on (and does not reflect trading in actual accounts). They are based on single hypothetical portfolios of $100,000 opened on 1 April 2012. Returns are after fees but before tax.

Amounts are indicative of returns, but the actual returns experienced by investors will vary depending on many factors, including the timing and amount of cashflows into the portfolio, the overall trading costs, the timing of rebalancing trades and the actual fees charged by your adviser, and the value of your portfolio.

Important: Hypothetical results have limitations. Hypothetical returns are only indicative of the actual trading performance. Because the portfolio includes trades that represent simulated historical performance and not actual trades, the results may have under-compensated or overcompensated for the impact of trading expenses and market factors like lack of liquidity. Past returns (whether hypothetical or actual) do not tell you how the investment strategy will perform in the future.

Example of how these fees apply in practice:

Scott Jones invested $100,000 at the start of the year in the Conservative Portfolio and did not make any further contributions. He agreed an Adviser fee of 1% with his adviser, and the Select fee for a portfolio of this size is 0.60%. At the end of the year, this gives Scott a return of 3.67%, before tax.

Deborah Smith invested $850,000 at the start of the year in the Conservative Portfolio and did not make any further contributions. She also agreed an Adviser fee of 1% with her adviser, however the Select fee for a portfolio of this size is 0.43%. At the end of the year, this gives Deborah a return of 3.84%, before tax.
